Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Monday 08 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cold with snow showers, driest in the west.

Today:
Bright or sunny spells and scattered snow showers. The showers most frequent over eastern Scotland with some heavy showers at times. Fewer showers in west with longer sunny intervals. Cold, with brisk easterly winds.

Tonight:
Some clear spells, especially in west, but further snow showers, more frequent and heaviest in east and likely pushing through the Central Belt on rather brisk and cold easterly winds.

Tuesday:
Cold with snow showers, heaviest and most frequent in east and possibly through the Central Belt too. Drier, with more sunshine in west. Still brisk easterly winds.

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Cold. with further snow showers, but drier in west and winds easing, with fewer showers by Thursday. Strengthening southeast winds Friday could bring snow and coastal rain to west later.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.